

Deputy Director, Network Services

THE BROAD CENTER FOR THE MANAGEMENT OF SCHOOL SYSTEMS

BACKGROUND

The mission of The Broad Center for the Management of School Systems (www.broadcenter.org) is to raise student achievement by recruiting, training and supporting executive leadership talent from across America to become the next generation of urban school district leaders. The Center identifies talented leaders from education, business, the military, nonprofit organizations and government who have the passion, knowledge and skills to take on executive leadership roles in urban education. The Broad Center operates two primary leadership development programs: The Broad Superintendents Academy and The Broad Residency in Urban Education.

Created in 2002, The Broad Superintendents Academy is a rigorous, ten-month executive training program designed to prepare the next generation of public school superintendents. The nine classes of Broad Academy Fellows to date have included leaders from business, education, government, the military and nonprofit organizations. Participants in the program retain their full-time employment status and attend the Academy for six extended weekend sessions. The residential learning session faculty is composed of leading education practitioners. Between sessions, participants are expected to undertake a series of rigorous individual skill-building activities and performance projects to build their leadership portfolios.

Created in 2003, The Broad Residency is an intensive two-year management development program offered to talented early- and mid-career professionals from the private and non-profit sectors. The purpose of the program is to provide an entry point for developing leaders who are not currently working in public education to train and prepare for senior positions in urban school systems throughout the country. Residents are placed directly in a large urban school district working for the Superintendent or one of his or her cabinet-level administrators. Over the course of the two years, Residents meet together for eight professional development sessions for rigorous study and skill-building activities. When the program ends, Residents are well prepared to assume leadership posts in public school systems.

Building and maintaining a strong network of TBC-trained leaders from both programs exponentially increases the already significant impact of our individual alumni. By building connections among network members, facilitating the exchange of information and best practices, and galvanizing the political power of the TBC network, we can accelerate the diffusion of innovation, mobilize people for policy change, and ultimately achieve The Broad Center's goal of raising achievement for all students.
